

MUSIC & ARTS

10:20 AM, Stage      Creating Community Through Theater – Meg Bouchard & Melissa Chesnut-Tangerman; 50 min. Conceived by children's author Frank Asch, Theater in the Woods was a hugely popular mainstay of SolarFest since 1996. It became its own educational entity in 2016. In the context of theater as a tool for social change, we will share some of the exercises and songs we use in our summer camps. For all ages: come prepared to PLAY! Meg Bouchard has been a professional actor since childhood, with credits on both coasts. She is currently the Educational Director of Off The Hook, the educational outreach wing of Falconworks, based in Brooklyn (Community Theatre of the Year, The Village Voice, 2016). Meg conducts theater workshops, mentors' young playwrights, and directs the one-acts that students create. As a boon from the universe, Meg jumped into our first camp in 2016 with all her heart and as a volunteer, teaching acting and clown work. An accomplished director and educator, Meg moved full-time to Middletown Springs in 2017, the better to pursue Theater in the Woods' creative endeavors. 10:20 AM, CSA Shed      Understanding the creative process as a conflict resolution scientific phenomenon, reflecting the unconscious and how it revamps psychology into an exact science of conflict resolution, the Moral Science – Albert Levis, MD, Maxwell Levis, PhD, Melissa Levis song writer, educator; 50 min.

The Earth, Sky, Time farm was named by Dr Albert Levis as he observed a cruel pattern in the primordial Greek family consisting of mother Earth, father Sky, son Chronos or Time. The pattern repeated five times in the Greek creation story, but ended resolved with the creation of the religion of the great Gods of Olympus. In his Formal Theory he explained this pattern as a scientific conflict resolution phenomenon representing the unconscious. He developed a psychological self-assessment that uses creativity for self-discovery. The test is available online free of charge. It readily helps a person to identify her personality type and how to improve one's way of resolving conflicts. This assessment validated the Formal Theory into the Moral Science totally revamping psychology. Dr Levis acquired the Wilburton Inn incorporated it as Art to Science and installed there the exhibits of the Museum of the Creative Process to acquaint people with a major scientific breakthrough.

The Levis family is collaborating in conducting research and training at the Wilburton Inn and the Moral Science Project. moralscience@hotmail.com; museumofthecreativeprocess.com

12:00 AM, Stage      The Guitar and Composition: A Breakthrough Experience – Freddi Shehadi; 50 min. As a guitarist and multi-instrumentalist, Freddi Shehadi has achieved great success writing, producing and performing music across many genres for 35 years. His compositions have been played and heard worldwide on major radio stations, television networks and movie soundtracks. In this workshop Freddi will discuss methods and theories of guitar playing and performance. He will speak of the integration of playing, composing and production and how they come together to unite in a piece of music. He will show unique methods of playing the guitar that will open you to a new world of ideas. Freddi will use certain fundamental ideas from which you can create your own ideas and better understand the instrument. He will show how he has been able to derive original ideas from artists as diverse as Bach, The Beatles, Charlie Parker, Sheryl Crow and beyond. This will be an exciting workshop! Freddi Shehadi is an Emmy Award/Mobius Award winning guitarist/composer and producer who commands a wide range of styles and textures in his performances. He loves to capture the energy of a performance from spontaneity, working with a very talented and diverse group of musicians. Expect to "feel" as much as you "hear" from this dynamic musician.
